

RHENISH HISTORY CORNER

(Series no.45)

While in the centre of town, let us examine more closely the mark the Rhenish Mission Association left on our town and our school.

The Rhenish Parsonage

This lovely building stands behind the Rhenish Institute. It now houses the Toy Museum but was once the Rhenish Parsonage i.e. the home of the parson (minister/priest) of the Rhenish Mission Church, Rev. J Weber, who was the Manager of the Institute, until it became a Government school in 1901. He then served on the School Committee until he retired in 1926. The gabled building forms part of a complex of various buildings used by the Rhenish Mission Society.

An elegant but simple gateway in Herte Street was the original entrance to the complex.
